You are working for a startup company that is building an application that receives large amounts of data. Unfortunately, current funding has left the start-up short on

Which services would you implement in order to store a virtually unlimited amount of data without any effort to scale when demand unexpectedly increases? Choose the correct answer from the options below

- A. AmazonEC2, because EBS volumes can scale to hold any amount of data and, when used with Auto Scaling, can be designed for fault tolerance and high availability
- B. AmazonS3, because it provides unlimited amounts of storage data, scales automatically highly available, and durable
- C. AmazonImport/Export, because Amazon assists in migrating large amounts of data to Amazon S3
- D. AmazonGlacier, to keep costs low for storage and scale infinitely
